

Quiet Session of Town Council Last Monday

No Additional Taxes on Improvement of Town Property

Town Council met in regular session last Monday evening and all members were present. Very little business of importance came up for discussion.

Accounts as passed by the finance committee were approved for payment.

Mr. A. McGinnis wrote Council asking for price of the lot adjoining east side of his property on Broadway. Council set the price at amount of current taxes. Insurance on the fire equipment, the town building and town hall furniture was also set by Council.

A by-law providing for the reduction of extra taxation for the period of three years, on all repairs, alteration and improvements to property situated within the town, in excess of $100 was introduced. The by-law was given its several readings and passed.

Councillor Hindle, chairman of the water committee, explained to Council the work being done on the installation of the new machinery for the pump station. He pointed out that the delay was caused by the lack of additional equipment as the replacement of pumps. He reported that the pump was being made and hoped that the pump would be in operation the next day.

Local Legion Picnic Was Held Yesterday

Was Held in The Central Park In Medicine Hat

Local Legion annual picnic for the children was held yesterday afternoon. Plans were made to hold the picnic at Central Park in Medicine Hat, but the unsettled weather during the picnic for a while still conditions improved.

Several cars were on hand to take the youngsters to the park. There was a splendid afternoon's program was arranged for the occasion.

Refreshments of various kinds were distributed among the children during the afternoon. As a duty lunch was served in the evening by the Ladies Auxiliary. A program of sports were held in the afternoon for all ages which all took part in.

The New Pump Now Operating To Fill The Tank

Expect To Get Swimming Pool Operating Soon

It is good news to the citizens of Redcliff to learn that the new pump for the pump station is now in operation and is performing its work in a very satisfactory manner so far. Shortly after it was put in operation on Tuesday afternoon the water tank began to fill up and by Wednesday morning the tank was flowing over.

Immediately after the tank was full the swimming pool committee got busy and made arrangements to get everything in readiness for flooding the pool. Town Forman Kitchen and his staff showed keen interest in the pool and did everything possible to get it flooded.

The water was turned on yesterday and left running till the pool was filled. On account of the previous 2 day's rain, water was very muddy which made it impossible to use the pool for the children to swim in. Very cold weather this morning made it impossible for swimming as the pool was drained out and will be left empty until the heavy mud has settled.

WHEAT CROP THIS YEAR MUCH SMALLER

The crop report issued on Friday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics at Ottawa does not make very good reading. It indicates a condition of the wheat crop as at July 1st of 51 per cent of average. Taking the wheat yield at around 11 bushels, it would appear that the Western Canadian average this year would be around 8 bushels. At best we can now harvest little more than 160,000,000 bushels. Taking seed and feed supplies for Western farms out of that, there will be left for shipment less than 125,000,000 bushels.

Mr. A. Steele, of Toronto, arrived last week to take over the position as travelling representative for the Dominion Glass factory here.

Possibilities For Solving the Local Farm Problems

Completion of Irrigation This District

Farmers of this district who have remained here for the past 20 or 25 years are in the most anxious state of their entire lives.

While in the past few years there have been very light years in many cases there was one year in many years seed, and feed of various kinds were harvested enough to white over the next year.

The outlook for this winter and next spring is the most ever faced in this district. The great problem now is what is to be done?

There is no doubt that federal and provincial governments will have to come to the rescue and whatever they are going to have to have to pay for it.

Although plans have to be made for this winter the great problem facing the government is what is to be done for the future. Just before the Great War broke out the solution was in sight for this in the district when Mr. Hodge was employed as a land and surveyor, in the same position in the Dominion Glass factory here and a few years later was advanced as manager of the plant to replace Mr. Ted Hodge who had retired from the plant after which Mr. and Mrs. Hodge spent several months in England and then returned to Redcliff where they resided till they left last week for Vancouver.

As old times in Redcliff Mr. and Mrs. Hodge have always stepped it and nothing has been taken a keen interest in all lines in that the since. If the irrigation project through this district were completed by the end of the year it is estimated that the money spent for relief, seed and feed and the expense of moving settlers, would have paid for the construction of the rail line for the construction of the rail line project.

With the amount of water for the coast. Mr. and Mrs. Hodge will be in the district and the money greatly reduced in Redcliff and redcliff which could help in their own hands, it is a wonderful opportunity in their new home, which would help to solve the problems are being overcast.

Pioneer Couple of Redcliff Have Moved

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hodge Moved To Pacific Coast

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Hodge, who have been in Redcliff for many years, have moved to Vancouver where they will reside in future.

Mr. and Mrs. Hodge were born in England and came here when the first industry in town was opened up, they began as the Brick & Coal company. Mrs. Hodge came here as a young girl from Minnesota, daughter of Mr. A. W. Woodcock who was at the time manager of the brick plant. About the same time Mr. Hodge came here as a land and surveyor, in the same position in the Dominion Glass plant. While the town was still in its infancy the young couple were married, and with the exception of during the war when Dick was in the army, both have resided here continuously ever since their first arrival.

On his return from the war Mr. Hodge was employed as a land and surveyor, in the same position in the Dominion Glass factory here and a few years later was advanced as manager of the plant to replace Mr. Ted Hodge who had retired from the plant after which Mr. and Mrs. Hodge spent several months in England and then returned to Redcliff where they resided till they left last week for Vancouver.

May Move Hat Pottery Plant to Redcliff Building

Officials Here Yesterday Looking Over Ornamental Bldg.

Mr. A. D. Conning of Calgary Managing Director of the Medall Pottery, and the Greenwood both of Medicine Hat, accompanied by Mr. W. Armstrong, Manager of the Medall, paid a visit to Redcliff yesterday.

Mr. Conning informed the officials that the company was seriously considering the moving of the Medall Pottery plant to Redcliff. He inspected the old Ornamental building and was impressed with the opinion that it would be an ideal building for their industry, and if satisfactory arrangements could be made he felt sure the company would move their plant to Redcliff.

The Ornamental building belongs to the town and there is no doubt that the council would be prepared to offer reasonable inducements to have the industry located here as it is thriving industry with a number of employees and a considerable yearly payroll.

Swine Industry Second Only To Wheat In Volume Of Trade With Britain

In 1935, Canada exported more than $28,000,000 worth of pork products to the United Kingdom. This placed the hog producer second only to the wheat producer in importance to the country with respect to volume of trade with the Motherland, and represented an increase in financial return over 1933 of approximately $7,000,000. When it is remembered that this money was distributed among very large number of Canadians, importance of this part of our agricultural production becomes apparent. Not only did the hog represent an important source of revenue to farmers but, railways, truckers, stockyards, packing plants and allied trades were able to employ more help and pay more wages and so assist in the national re-employment plan. The hog could well be characterized as a national "mortgagee" letter.

on hand in England at all times. We must try to protect the foothold we now have on this market and our best protection is the appearance there of regular supplies. In spite of the fact that feed prices have advanced sharply, producers should make every possible effort to maintain their production, if they expect to grow and sell hogs at a profit in the coming years.

A gradual expansion of hog production, with provision for the maintenance of such expansion would be a desirable thing from a national point of view. The market absorbs extremes and the alternation of light and heavy runs of hogs places the industry in a state of jeopardy. The competition for the British bacon market, in kren, A number of nations would like to sell more, because there. If we do not take advantage of our allotted quota, some other hog

Valuable Manuscripts

Unpublished Letters Of Elizabeth Browning Bring Good Price Manuscripts and unpublished letters of Elizabeth Barrett telling of her romance and runaway marriage with the poet, Robert Browning, brought $15,000 at public auction in London.

The letters were part of the collection of Mrs. Browning's nephew, the late Lord-Captain H. P. Montagu-Barrett, which was offered sold by his executor.

A letter written by Miss Barrett at the age of six to her mother brought $110; 111 letters to her sister Arabell, $4,700; and 17 letters to her brother George, $1,700.

Shopping with Browning to escape her autocratic father, Miss Barrett wrote in most of the letters of her departure and married life. Included in the sale was a number of manuscripts, including the poem "The Poet," 1846, the year she departed from her home at 50 Wimpole street.

The collection is considered to be the most important group of Browning material put on the market since Browning's own papers were sold in 1913 for $130,000.

Combat Weed Seeds

Some Of The Worst Weeds In Canada Can Rapidly Infect A Farm

The greatest difficulty in maintaining successful farming, and particularly in producing a more abundant supply of clean forage and grain seed, is the prevalence of weeds.

Weed seeds are introduced on farms with imperfectly cleaned cereal, clover, and other commercial seeds, and with commercial feeding stuffs. These seeds are spread from district to district through the various transportation facilities, are disseminated within a locality in stable manure from towns and cities, and are distributed from farm to farm through threshing machines, and from field to farm implements. The wild carious weed seeds long distance, streams disperse them along their courses, and herbivorous animals and seed-eating birds help to spread the evil broadcast.

It is important to consider not only the large number of weeds seen with imperfectly cleaned grain, but also those already in farm soils. Some of the worst weeds in Canada are as persistent in soil as the seeds of weeds that relatively clean fields may become badly contaminated in two or three years if these weed seeds are allowed to go to seed. For example, a single plant of wild mustard, pigweed, fat-tail, pig-weed, or campion produces from 100 to 2,000 seeds.

Worm-seed mustard about 25,000; shepherd's purse about 50,000, and shepherd's purse about 1,000,000. With such productivity, weeds become quickly infested with weed seeds, although the presence of the weed is not fully realized at the moment, owing to their inconspicuousness. Only a careful examination will reveal their kinds and numbers, and with this object in view the Seed Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture gathered information on the prevalence of weed seeds in farm lands. Part of this work is to be found in bulletins "Weeds and Weed Seeds," an 86-page illustrated publication which deals fully with the weeds of Canada and how to control them.

It is not an exaggeration to say that a single plant of wild mustard, for example, may be obtained from the Seed Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Much information is also given on seed cleaning and seed cleaning accessories.

Lord Tweedsmuir Speaks Of Status Of War When He Has Known

In a luncheon address at St. John, N.B., Lord Tweedsmuir indicated his preference in addition, now found whom he had known. Among them, "builders," he selected Cecil Rhodes, Lord Cromer and Theodor Roosevelt, William Gladstone and Herbert Asquith were mentioned as great party leaders.

"Lawrence of Arabia" was the one soldier of genius I have known," said Lord Tweedsmuir. "Of all the literary men he had known he thought the name of Rudyard Kipling would be remembered."

"I hope I will be considered a stiff traditionalist if I say that in my opinion it seems to me to be the power of public speaking has declined," said His Excellency. "I hope I will not be considered long-term if I say that there is no one in Canada today who speaks as Sir Wilfrid Laurier spoke."

"I am inclined to think risk is taking the heart out of strategy. Yet it will always be a great art, and perhaps conditions of the world will produce a new kind of strategy where the demagogue will be at a disadvantage."

Canada's position in the event of war, and how Government policy with such countries would be decided by the League of Nations Society, was debated when the newly-elected executive committee of the League of Nations Society in Canada met at a luncheon at the Chateau Laurier in Ottawa, under chairmanship of Senator Charles Wilson.

Principal R. C. Wallace, of Queen's University, said he was surprised, as a member of the society's executive, as to the real position of Canadians in the League of Nations Society, and the relation of them to what was, presumably, governmental policy at the present time in Canada.

He believed this should be clarified, and said: "I am sure that the society means that we have to insist to the Government that Canada has to be ready to take its share in a League war, in any part of the world. I think we need ourselves in a position of strength in Canada."

Hon. R. J. Manion, former Minister of Railways and Canada, said the point raised by Dr. Wallace was an important one. "We all want to live up to obligations that Canada takes upon herself. But, until there is something like a united opinion with regard to what Canada should do, we are up against a difficult proposition."

John W. Dufres, of Winnipeg, declared his opinion was the League of Nations Society. "I am sure that the society means that we have to insist to the Government that Canada has to be ready to take its share in a League war, in any part of the world. I think we need ourselves in a position of strength in Canada."

A uniform lot of Wildturkeys. Note the finish, balance and hump development

A very encouraging feature of the hog industry is the availability of the world's biggest bacon market to Canada. The Ottawa Agreement of 1932 giving us a quota of 280,000 pounds of ham and bacon per year, were to all intents and purposes, extended in 1937 by the Anglo-Canadian Trade Agreement. On the basis of marketability we still have room for more hogs in Canada. This cannot be said of all agricultural products and is a feature of fundamental importance when considering the expansion or introduction of any industry. It is well to remember that in 1936 we took advantage of only about 50 per cent. of our quota. The following figures, in pounds, indicate the gradual increase in our exports of bacon and ham to the United Kingdom and the distance that we still have to go to fill our allotted quota:

1931	10,961,000
1932	30,693,400
1933	11,523,700
1934	11,707,800
1935	12,427,300
1936	18,768,000

This increasing supply has been getting a very acceptable welcome and sale in the Motherland. We have established regular customers—people who ask for Canadian bacon and depend on it. We should try to keep these customers a major factor in keeping them in having a supply producing country. While British colonies are becoming interested in the hog industry, our position of supply to the United Kingdom during the term of the present trade agreement will be reinforced in arrangements which the British Ministry make for their future supplies.

Most of the hogs grown in Canada are produced in small groups. Few "hog ranches" or now herds exist. One, two, or three per farm is the extent of breeding stock usually maintained. This relationship of hogs to the farm business is probably the result of long experience on the producer part and is quite possibly the correct way to produce hogs. When it is recalled that the hog is used to market the by-products of the farm—cattle, grain, low-grade commercial grade, dry products, and household waste—it is quite logical that a limited number of hogs would make most profitable use of such products as are usually available.

In some cases, producers have taken the hog as a matter that has limited production, influencing the average quality. Hog raising was instituted to encourage producers of quality hogs for their care and judgment. It will pay all producers to keep to grades as their objective.

U.S. War Department Approves Exportation Of Helium From Oil Wells

Major General Oscar Westover, chief of the United States army air corps, believes that the United States has a "very effective" against United States industrial areas during mobilization for any future war.

In an appearance before a senate military affairs sub-committee studying a bill to permit exportation of helium, Westover said the big sky raiders can be "a very effective force in the battle of defense."

Westover was discussing the export of helium, which he said he had told the committee the war department approved exportation of the gas for "ammunition, aviation, and strictly commercial airship purposes" in peacetime.

In wartime, however, Westover added, "it would not make much difference whether you have helium or hydrogen—if you are going to accomplish your military mission, you are going to sacrifice everything."

The record year for the Great Lakes, measured by the statistics taken at the Soo, was 1929, when the total was 128,574,441 tons. It is predicted that 1936 for this year will be greater than that high mark.

It is a tremendous thing, this traffic on the world's greatest inland waterway. It is a consummation to remark that the traffic through the Great Lakes is greater than that through Panama or the Suez Canal, but in 1929 it was greater than the combined traffic through the other two.

The tonnage of freight received and shipped from Great Lakes ports that year exceeded that of the Atlantic Gulf of Mexico and Pacific ports of the United States and the great tonnage of the vessels employed in the trade traffic was greater than the merchant fleet of Holland and almost equalled that of France—Port Arthur News-Chronicle.

Need Permits For Nails

Builders In Germany Require Official Sanction For Nail Materials

To build a house in modern Germany one needs not only bricks and wood and cement and architect's implements but, most essential of all, an official permit to use nails, screws, bolts and steel reinforcement.

Smaller private houses and public schools costing more than $3,000 and $25,000 respectively, all nails and screws must be supplied with "according to quantities available," whereas construction plans under $3,000 do not have to apply for special permit.

Newspaper in Philadelphia was electric signs that flash across the streets the name of the paper they represent. The sign not only has a strong advertising appeal, making it easy to "spot" a newspaper on a crowded street, but it is a valuable traffic aid, pointing the way to the newspaper's office.

Teaching Of Pacifism

Britisher Is Against The Methods Used In Schools

R. H. B. Carter, Conservative, rapped current methods of teaching in the British House of Commons during debate on the board of education estimates.

"It makes one's blood boil to think of instances from our history and the duties of our generals and admirals being out of history books," he declared.

Speaker contended it was most dangerous to teach pacifism and the brotherhood of man while other nations were teaching their children that the only things that matter are soldiers, the rights of wrongs and the glory of arms.

"The boys and maid must be told they have got a duty towards the state in peace and war." Some teachers might be told "a few truths about pacifism," he declared.

Another side of the argument given by Rev. C. O. Holland, vicar of Brent, writing in his parish magazine. He termed military "a religion of mass murder."

Tattoo, he said, were "whitened" because they present war's aspect of a glorious and venture instead of showing it as it is, a filthy, bestial stench; while pacifism because they show our own side always victorious and the "enemy" ignominiously routed."

Livestock Production

Export Marketing Is One Of The Three Most Important Phases Of Industry

Export marketing is one of the three most important phases of livestock production. H. J. G. Gardner, federal minister of agriculture, told 600 British livestock breeders at Guelph, Ont., that the other two phases are good breeding and good feed.

Mr. Gardner said he recently had been to the United States and had seen many small things that governed the export market. One of these was the fact that the United States had a large number of dairy farms that he had seen and he declared he would not use any others on his dairy herd.

However, said Mr. Gardner, many Canadian dairy cows were slaughtered at the wharf because they did not come to English standards. He found England wanted a cow which might be bred so as to produce good beef.

Watching a sale of steers in Glasgow, at which animals averaged $40, Mr. Gardner said that British and Canadian farmers did not want steers, which had lost part of an ear. The reason was that the British government had a law that no farmer could take these steers and feed them for three months. They push each one of these steers and could not be sold for this purpose twice, and in the case of cattle with damaged ears, they might be sold for a second time, but the farmer had to clip the ear to remove the punch mark.

He had come to the realization, Mr. Gardner said, that more information on the requirements of the export market was needed by Canadian producers.

Forecast Long Reign

A long and successful reign for Queen Elizabeth is forecast by Italian astrologers in Rome. The star under which the Queen was born is—the same as that of the famous Kohinoor diamond set in the Queen's crown and this is considered a happy omen.

Seven thousand tons of water go over Niagara Falls every hour.

British railways carried 100,000,000 passengers in a recent month.

Joke Was On Owner

Keeper Of Fashionable Hotel Had To Pay Luncheon Check

The other day Judith Anderson, the actress, was lunching in the Algonquin. She was alone. When Frank Case, the owner of the hotel, asked her what she had done, she said she had paid for a check. He said she had paid for a check. He said she had paid for a check.

"If there's one thing I don't like about my place," he told Miss Anderson, "it is that so many more come in here to lunch by themselves. And that's not the worst of it. When they have finished they get up, look around the dining room for a pretty woman of their acquaintance and then they come back and pay for her luncheon."

"Gee," she said, "my check to Mr. Case."

The joke was on the town's tallest, most suave and listless innkeeper, but he lived it. —New York Post

In the centre of a new restaurant recently opened by Lady Howard, one of the best chefs in London, is the famous "The Shark" restaurant.

The whale shark, largest of all sharks, has the smallest teeth, but he has 3,000 in each jaw.
